SIMULSCRIBE COMPLETES LARGEST U.S. CARRIER INTEROPERABILITY FOR VOICEMAIL-TO-TEXT & VISUAL VOICEMAIL

SimulScribe's voicemail-to-text service becomes a unified messaging solution, operational with major networks; AT&T, Alltel, Cincinnati Bell, Sprint, Skype, T-Mobile, Verizon, Virgin and over 50 more

(New York, NY) September 19, 2007-- SimulScribe, the leader in voicemail-to-text services and visual voicemail applications, announced today it completed the largest carrier interoperability in the U.S. for voicemail-to-text and visual voicemail services. SimulScribe's carrier footprint includes every major U.S. carrier and enables nearly any individual or enterprise to experience SimulScribe's award winning voicemail-to-text service. Customers can instantly add SimulScribe to their mobile, home and work phones, simply by signing up at www.simulscribe.com.

SimulScribe's comprehensive network interoperability enables users to unify all their phone lines; mobile, home, work to one unlimited voicemail box. Customers can instantly unify their phone lines and their email account(s) with SimulScribe, enabling them to read all their messages in one place, regardless of how many different carriers they use and without having to change a single phone number.

"It's very exciting to see that our aggressive pursuit of total carrier interoperability has resulted in SimulScribe operating on over 95 percent of U.S. carriers, giving more people and businesses access to voicemail-to-text services than any other company," said James Siminoff, CEO of SimulScribe. "It no longer matters what network you're on; if you want to experience the freedom of reading voicemail, you can; and you can take your messaging experience a step further by combining multiple phones on multiple networks into a unified messaging solution by simply adding them to your SimulScribe account."

SimulScribe has turned on service for over 95 percent of U.S. carriers, enabling their customers to read voicemail instead of having to dial in and listen to it. SimulScribe now operates with the following carriers: ACS Wireless Alaska, Air Voice, Alltel, Boost Mobile, Bell, Call Plus, Cincinnati Bell, AT&T, Fido, MetroPCS, Nextel, Qwest, Skype, Sprint, Suncom, T-Mobile, Telus, U.S. Cellular, Verizon, Virgin and more. Since launching its commercial service in January 2007, SimulScribe has received numerous awards: two coveted Four Star Ratings from PC Magazine, The Business 2.0 Next Net 25 Award and Laptop Magazine's Mobile Mavericks Award.

About SimulScribe

SimulScribe's award winning service converts voicemail to text and delivers it via e-mail and SMS. Automatic voicemail transcriptions are delivered in near real-time with the caller's phone number in the e-mail subject line, transcribed voice message in the body and an attached audio file of the original message. Users can unify all phone numbers for automatic transcription and delivery without changing any phone numbers. SimulScribe provides unlimited voicemail box storage and has a transcription accuracy of over 95 percent. SimulScribe's service works with all wireless and wire-line network providers, including Skype. New users can sign up at www.SimulScribe.com.
